President Leaves Monday On "Goodwill Mission" to Latin American Countries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower sets out next week on a personal mission aimed at demonstrating that the United States wants to be a good partner and a good neighbor to Latin America. Sunday night, on the eve of his departure, Eisenhower will discuss his plans for the trip in a 15-minute speech to be carried nationally on radio and television. The President worked today on the speech, which White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said will also contain some references to the nation's defenses.

Monday morning the President will set out on a 15,000-mile tour that will take him to Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay. He will visit the southern nations of the hemisphere. His return to the United States is scheduled for March 6 following a visit to Puerto Rico.

The tour is the second of three that has been planned in an effort to improve world understanding. In December, he visited 12 nations in Europe, the Middle East and Africa. A June tour of the Soviet Union and the Far East is in the works.

A generally warm reception seems assured for the President in Latin America. But officials here are not overlooking the possibility of isolated demonstrations by Yankee-haters.

Some demonstrations reportedly had been planned in protest of the scheduled execution of kidnappers in Caracas, Venezuela. A Friday evening for Chechnya may also take the steam from such plans.

There has been some criticism in the U.S. and Latin American sources that Eisenhower has neglected the needs to the South. The President himself has said he feels his administration has made great efforts to develop better inter-American understanding.

He apparently is seeking new ways to improve such understanding and is taking with him one of the right members of his national advisory committee on Inter-American relations.

The committee, headed by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, is including the President's nephew, Milton S. Eisenhower, charged with bringing forth creative ideas for improving U.S.-Latin American relations.

Free Ride At Lava Area

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20 (AP)—When a Western Air Lines DC-8 jet from Mexico City landed today, a maintenance crew found a five-inch fish, with its head in the plane's engine. It was placed in a pill of water.

The guess is that a sea gull picked the fish from the Pacific ocean and dropped it as the plane descended for landing.

Castro Calls U.S. Apology "Moral Win"

HAVANA, Feb. 20 (AP)—The newspaper of Prime Minister Fidel Castro today called a U.S. apology for the shooting down of a Cuban private plane last week a "moral win."

The newspaper said the apology was not enough and demanded acceptance of responsibility for the shooting down of the plane.

Seriousness of Cattle Theft Problem Stressed at Meet for 71 Association

Robert Henderson, associated secretary of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, stressed the seriousness of the cattle theft problem at an annual winter meeting of the association Friday at the Park Hotel.

Henderson compared stealing cattle to being sentenced to jail with a pecuniary penalty given for a $5 check.

Heavy Snows Paralyze Eastern I. S.; Autos Stranded on Thruway

A staggering onslaught of snow—reinforced by bone-chilling winds—kept portions of the East paralyzed today while a new storm pelted the central plains and rolled northward. Hundreds of motorists remained stranded on thruways from Syracuse to Buffalo. Gale-force winds scooped more than two feet of snow into 18-foot drifts. The storm which rolled across the South at midweek and then punched northward along the Atlantic seaboard, buried vast sections of upstate New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

At least 16 deaths as a result of the snowstorm were reported by the state.

Traffic over heavily snowed Pennsylvania thruway was tied up nearly 20 hours before men and machines won a battle against snow and wind. Parts of the big thruway were closed for 100 miles until traffic began moving this evening. One stretch had been closed since Thursday night.

Snow up to three feet swamped the western slopes of the Allegheny mountains, and drifts piled 10 feet in many places. Most, restaurants and churches were places of refuge for thousands of motorists.

More than 200 persons crammed into a small restaurant at Lancaster, Pa., along the thruway. They played cards, slept, read magazines, drank coffee and even offered to help wash the dishes.

Aids from the thruway, emergency roads in storm-ravaged areas of New York state were either closed or open only to emergency traffic. All forms of public transportation were snarled.

West Eyes Trouble on Arms Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy are reported to be having difficulty in working out a single Western disarmament plan for negotiation with the Soviet Union. Some allied diplomats said that the Western powers may produce instead a "coordinated position" on disarmament issues. This could mean that each country would go into the 10-nation conference at Geneva March 15 with its own set of proposals for dealing with disarmament problems.

Efforts under way here for the past four weeks to develop a joint plan were expected disappointing to some of the allies.

Diplomats said privately that the United States had been slow to develop its own policy, chiefly due to differences between the state and defense departments over the nature and timing of controls.

When U. S. proposals finally came out a week ago, some of the allies found them lacking in boldness and imagination.

The second stage of Western talks on disarmament policy was held yesterday by the men who will do the actual negotiating with delegations from five Soviet bloc nations in a Geneva conference. Three of these top men, Jules Moch of France, David Brown of Britain and Gianni Martino of Italy left last night for their home capitals.

The top five including Frederick Meade of the United States and Gen. E. L. Munn of Canada, expect to meet again, probably in London, next week.

Clyde J. Slatter, Twin Falls, appeared before Twin Falls Justice of the Peace on Saturday and entered a plea of guilty to driving on a revoked driver's license. He was fined $25 and sentenced to 30 days in jail, suspended, and fined $50 and costs.

Slatter was cited Wednesday on Washington avenue north by State Patrolman G. S. Jackson. He appeared before Judge Scott Wednesday and requested time to consult with an attorney.

His license originally was revoked in North Carolina for drunk driving and the revocation was commuted in Idaho.

Lowell L. Lytle, 20, 543 Blue Lakes boulevard, was fined $50, $50 and costs.

West Caught In "Trap" on East Germany

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Soviet Union appears to have caught the Western allies in a damaging trap with its latest move aimed at building up communist East Germany and destroying an independent West Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France reportedly see no way out of the diplomatic snare which could represent some retreat to the symbolic weakening of their position in Germany. The choice they have is the choice of the lesser evil.

The alternatives the Soviets have chosen them in practical terms: 1. To let some of their military forces remain in East Germany which would imply a degree of recognition of the German communist government; or 2. To scrap the system of military occupation and let the German people decide their future.

The Soviet Union has chosen the first alternative, and the Western allies are caught in a trap.

Senators Say Cuban Sugar May Be Short

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Two Northwest senators today expressed fear that Cuba might fall short in the United States sugar quota this year and asked that steps be taken to allow domestic producers to make up any shortage.

Sen. Warren G. Magnusson and Henry M. Jackson, Washington Democrats, said Cuba's new agreement to supply Russia with one million tons of sugar yearly might make that "unstable nation" unable to fill its annual three-million American quota.

In a letter to Chairman Allen Ellender, D. La., of the senate agricultural committee, they said the Cuban quota could be trimmed if needed through sugar act amendments they introduced last week.

A U. S. sugar shortage, they said, "might well result unless our sugar western reclamation areas are ready to step into the breach" to meet any Cuban deficit.

Copper Users Are in Bind, But See Hope

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Copper consumers these days find themselves in a spot similar to that of the besieged wagon train settlers in the next-to-last reel of an old fashioned cowboy and Indian melodrama: Things are tight now but relief is on the way.

The hand-pressed screen heroes, copper users are in a temporary bind. It's tough to scrounge up copper metal, they know.

However, that just as the U. S. cavalry will come charging over the hill in the final reel of the melodrama, more copper soon will come pouring to market.

This comforting knowledge was backed up by two developments this week. One was the prediction of R. Simpson, assistant treasurer of Kennecott Copper corporation, that some time during the year the supply of copper from presently operated properties and from newly developed sources will overtake demand.

The other was Copper Institute statistics for January, which showed sharp increases in both mine and refined production in this country.

U. S. mine production in January jumped to 55,001 tons from 24,688 in December, reflecting the beginning of the end of the strikes which plagued the industry since last August.

The amount should jump again this month with still more mines back in operation.

Refined output climbed to 86,401 tons from 46,202 tons a month earlier, enabling deliveries to fabricator to rise to 104,478 tons from 90,079 in December.

Senator, GOP Leader Visit Here

Sen. Henry Dworshak, R. Ida., and John Martin, left, Boise, look over release by Senator Dworshak dealing with inflation during a visit to Twin Falls Saturday. Senator Dworshak was here to meet with Twin Falls businessmen at an informal session and Martin, secretary of the state Republican committee, was making advance arrangements for the Republican convention scheduled here April 8. (Staff photo-engraving.)

Senator Says Idahoans Watch Inflation and U. S. Defenses

"National defense and inflation hold the attention of Idahoans and it is encouraging to know that people are watching developments in the national capital because they feel they are personally interested in holding the economic line," Sen. Henry Dworshak, R. Ida., told the Times-News Saturday.

Senator Dworshak concluded a week's stay in Idaho Saturday and visited in Twin Falls with John Martin, Boise, executive secretary of the Idaho Republican committee. Martin made advance arrangements for the Republican convention to be held in Twin Falls April 8.

Senator Dworshak, who is a member of the senate appropriations sub-committee said, "I believe the most unfortunate aspect of defense is that inflation is causing higher prices for everything required, such as planes, missiles and research."

He pointed to "discrepancies" in testimony by the various services and said one of our greatest needs is "more coordination and concentration on programs which receive overwhelming support."

The senator stated that although inflationary trends affect the economic life of our nation, "it is far more important to hold economic line so that we can get maximum value for our defense dollars."

"We cannot afford the luxury of political quibbling, because our first concern should be to strengthen our country both militarily and economically so that we will be strong enough to discourage Soviet aggression and if necessary, repel assaults in either a cold or a hot war."

Senator Dworshak said people are supporting the President's budget of about $50 billion dollars for the next fiscal year and are hopeful that there will be a surplus.

He added that "there is a full awareness that a surplus is contingent upon increased revenue, such as higher postal rates, and they realize that we may be fortunate to balance the budget."

"Constructive criticism is desirable to enable congress to act intelligently upon the national defense budget," Dworshak said. "However, political propaganda is harmful to our national morale. Many leading Democrats, who are extremely critical of congressional action on defense, overlook the fact that their party has had an overwhelming majority in both the senate and the house and therefore could provide additional funds if they deemed this essential to national security."

"In the interest of national survival," the senator said, "I believe that the President, pentagon officials, and congressional leaders should cooperate in working out a program within the financial limits of the President's budget."

"I believe this budget is large enough to take care of our requirements with emphasis upon accelerating both manned bombers and missile research and production. If we can eliminate duplication and insure more efficient procurement of defense equipment."

He approached the problem of defense saying "there is much confusion over the status of our current preparedness," and "criticism that the United States is lagging behind the Soviet Union in missile development is causing widespread fear and alarm."

Dworshak stated, "Direct criticism of the President and his vital reactions to charges that we have been negligent in our defense program have aroused all Americans and they are interested in learning the truth about these issues."

Dworshak said that regardless of the bickering over Russian "intentions" and Russian "capabilities," we are not lagging behind the Soviets.

He stated that the 1961 defense budget is adequate if we will get maximum results and recognize that unnecessary spending presents a similar threat to our national welfare."

Senator Has Discussion With 22 Businessmen at T.F. Meet

Sen. Henry C. Dworshak, R. Ida., met with about 22 businessmen representing a cross-section of all types of Twin Falls businesses including farming, in a conference from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at the Rogers hotel.

Among the subjects discussed were the defense budget, general government costs, Federal minimum wage law and the national park subject was discussed briefly.

It was mentioned Sen. Frank Church has found out he may have been premature in his announcement of the national park study.

Senator Dworshak said in his stay in this area during about the past week, he has made specific inquiries about the local economy in 10 counties. He spoke at a meeting in Oakley Friday night, stayed overnight in Burley, and came to Twin Falls to meet with the businessmen shortly before 10 a.m. Saturday.

Senator Dworshak was accompanied by John Martin, Boise, secretary of the Republican central committee. The two men drove by car to Boise Saturday afternoon, where Dworshak boarded a plane for Washington.

"CORVAIR HANDLES BETTER, STEERS MORE EASILY, RESPONDS MUCH MORE QUICKLY AND HOLDS THE ROAD MORE SECURELY THAN ANY STOCK FOUR-DOOR SEDAN EVER MADE IN THE U.S."

—Jim Whipple, Car Life

If you think we're enthusiastic about Corvair, leaf through the leading automotive, sports and science magazines and see what the experts are saying. Then, by all means, drive one yourself.

"Corvair's steering is so light that at peeling speeds it feels power assisted; it is so precise as to be absolutely without play, and it is fast enough to allow complete control over every situation."

Sports Cars Illustrated

"Steers like a feather and is extremely quick. . . This is a beautifully designed automobile, engineered by real pros. . ."

—Tom McCarthy, Mechanics Illustrated

"Most surprising thing to me outside of the excellent handling characteristics was the feeling of roominess inside. . . I didn't have the sensation of driving a small car and the headroom was greater in the Corvair than in some standard size cars. . ."

—L. H. Houck, Automotive News

"So far as shopping goes, the Corvair is a housewife's dream. It's small and easily maneuvered without any power steering, and so easily parked. . . it's a lot easier to unload a cart full of groceries into a front trunk at the supermarket than it is into a rear one."

—Katherine Francis, Popular Science

"I want to state as firmly as I can that the Corvair handles as beautifully and as safe as—if not safer than—any family car on the road today."

Foamy Water Caused From "Detergents"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (U)—The public health service has solved the case of the foaming water, but isn't sure what can be done about it.

The service says it is household detergents that sometimes cause a mass of tap water to collect a foaming head like a spongy mass of beer. It says the situation is not now considered as dangerous, disconcerting though it may be.

The foaming water has turned up in households that have their own wells, and it usually indicates detergents are seeping into the well from septic tanks. In times of drought water streams used for public water supplies also have contained enough detergent to cause foam.

The service says synthetic detergents which have burgeoned phenomenally in the past two decades—ranging from household cleaning to industrial uses—have caused the problem.

While it says there is no present danger, it warns that foaming water should be taken as a warning for possible contamination by other more dangerous pollutants.

Long Island Railroad Has Customer Bar

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (U)—The Long Island railroad, once a target of abuse, now is the toast of its commuter customers—or at least as many as can crowd into its new bar car.

Service runs higher and higher as the 6:03 highballed it from New York to Port Jefferson late today.

Passengers ordinarily risk life and limb just to get on the 6:03. This time they forgot the 6:03. The home crushing occurred in jammed aisles as hundreds fished backward through the train.

A pin-sized portable dispensary has been established in car 4 of the 14 coaches. It proved a staggering success.

The tiny bar was set up for what the railroad called "a noble experiment." In response to popular demand, however, the railroad had been busy dry.

Turning riders were forced to grab a quiche at the handcart before hitting the rail trail home.

Long ago they began to develop an alcoholic inferiority complex. That was because another commuter railroad, the New Haven, ministered properly to its gasoline passengers from suburban Westchester county and Connecticut.

The Long Island's 300,000 daily riders, who make it the world's busiest passenger railroad, have gotten pretty much what they want since it was recognized a few years ago to curb anguished timeliness, bypassed stations and trains taking off on the wrong track.

New Day Is Dawning in Rural U.S. With Development Plans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (U)—had decreased by 3,000,000, or 15.2 per cent. Only one in eight persons in the United States live on farms compared with one in six in 1900 and one in three 50 years ago.

The rural development program is centered on underdeveloped rural areas. Its objectives are (1) to help those areas expand industries and other non-farm job opportunities; (2) to help provide loans, land and skills to those who have the desire and the ability to stay in farming; and (3) to help people in these areas enjoy better opportunities for adequate education, vocational training and improved health.

Thirty states are cooperating with the voluntary program. Some 200 counties have their set up rural development projects or are in the process of doing so. The great bulk of them are in Southeastern states long an area of small farms and less manpower and that as a consequence millions of farm families will need economic opportunities.

Since 1960, the farm population

The program was drawn up in 1955 by the Eisenhower administration. It was prompted by realization that modern industrial agriculture will need less and less manpower and that as a consequence millions of farm families will need economic opportunities.

Under the rural development program, underdeveloped counties are being advised to survey their resources and develop them to attract new people.

Many new factories of many kinds will be needed to supply the growing population. Recreation facilities will have to be increased. So will schools and similar institutions.

The program operates through state land-grant agricultural colleges and the extension service. It does not foster a program upon a rural area. Usually it does not visit and the like.

Then area or county development committees are organized to provide the leadership. These committees are composed of local business, civic, church, farm and other leaders, newspaper, elected local officials and the like.

With the aid of technical experts, surveys are made of development possibilities—whether in the recreational facilities, and the like. A program is developed, then work is started to carry it on.

Smallest flowering plant is the duckweed, which is about one sixtieth of an inch in diameter.

State Worker List Goes up, Dips Sharply

Employment in Idaho was substantially higher than a year ago in mid-January, but fell sharply during the latter part of the month as sub-zero weather blanketed the state, according to a monthly report on the Idaho labor market.

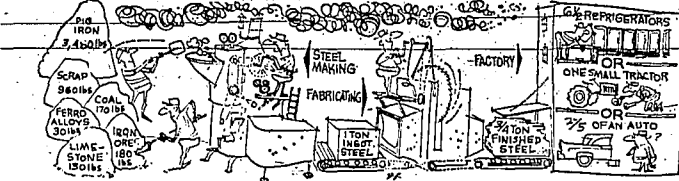

The usual seasonal curtailments coupled with the severe cold dropped employment at the end of January to what may be the low for the winter.

In Twin Falls, unemployment rose during January as seasonal layoffs of agricultural, construction and warehouse workers continued. Fluctuation of the potato market caused considerable unemployment among workers engaged in potato sorting.

Job opportunities are limited and labor turnover is slow in Burley, according to the report.

Unemployment in Coeur d'Alene appears slightly higher than a year ago because of less favorable weather conditions. A considerable impact on the economy of the area is expected when construction begins on the Titan missile base at

Many Raw Materials Needed to Make Steel

Stockmaking requires handling of a great variety of raw materials. Painful factors, above, show the production of one ton of ingot (carbon) steel and what it will make in terms of consumer goods. It takes 4,250 pounds of raw materials to make the ton of steel. Included in the 3,450 pounds of pig iron are iron ore, coke, limestone

Mountain Home.

Severe January weather, the worst in years, resulted in almost complete curtailment of agricultural activity in Rupert. Nonagricultural activities were near normal for the season, and fresh pack potato operations were below normal because of the limited supply of potatoes available.

In Jerome, there has been a heavier than usual early demand for general farm hands for the agricultural season. The supply of experienced farm hands at present appears to be below normal and the situation is expected to become acute because of construction planned in the area.

OTIS Tiarbach, librettist and lyric writer for scores of Broadway musical hits, was first a professor of English, then a newspaperman, and scrap. By the time ingot steel is fabricated into finished steel, a quarter-ton is puffed off which goes back into the furnace as scrap. In 1958, for example, ingot steel production was 85.3 million tons and finished steel shipments totaled 49.9 million tons. Data from American Iron and Steel Institute.

France Won't Set off Bomb By U.S. Tests

CHICAGO, Feb. 20 (AP)—The French government provided assurance that it would not detonate its first atomic bomb until U.S. tests were completed, the University of Chicago disclosed today.

Disclosure of the French guarantee was coincidental with the announcement today of Dr. Marcel Schœlin, the Chicago scientist who directed the Carribean tests—Operation Skyhook—last month.

Events leading to the French assurance were detailed in University of Chicago reports, a bi-monthly magazine.

The article said the noninterference agreement was obtained after an exchange between the University of Chicago physicist, a world authority on atomic tests, and Dr. Francis Perrin, high commissioner of the French atomic energy commission.

During Operation Skyhook, U.S. navy scientists, under Schœlin's direction, launched two huge balloons carrying radioactive tracers to 25 miles over the Carribean. The purpose was to get information on high energy cosmic ray—nuclear particles racing through the upper atmosphere.

While test arrangements were being completed, the article said, Schœlin wrote Perrin asking for help in avoiding "possible interference" between Jan. 23 and Feb. 8, the period of the Carribean tests. France exploded her first atomic bomb in North Africa Feb. 13.

Although results of Skyhook tests are being interpreted, Schœlin said of the tests after returning to Chicago:

"We are sure that we have obtained excellent data from the flights."

Schœlin, who was 57, died of a heart ailment. He was stricken last Sunday, the third time in 10 years.

Corn Support Rate Reduced By Secretary

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has reduced government price supports on corn enough to take around 250 million dollars off the potential value of this year's crop of the important livestock feed grain.

Benson announced late Friday that the support for the 1960 corn crop will be $1.56 a bushel compared with $1.57 for the 1959 crop. The bulk of the corn is grown in the politically important midwestern corn belt.

The new corn rate is the lowest permitted by law. The reduction had been expected in view of an accumulation of a record large harvest and surplus supply of the grain.

Benson had announced earlier reductions in support of wheat, cotton and rice which would lower their combined potential value about 12 million dollars. An increase in peanut support—also announced Friday—raised the potential value of this crop about six million dollars.

In other supports announced Friday, the secretary continued rates for four other feed grains, three oil seed crops and dry beans at last year's figures.

They are, barley, 77 cents a bushel; grain sorghums, $1.38 per hundredweight; oats, 50 cents a bushel; rye, 80 cents a bushel; soybeans, $1.80 a bushel; flaxseed, $2.25 a bushel; cottonseed, 35 dollars a ton on farm stored cottonseed and 34 1/2 a ton for purchased cottonseed; and dry beans, $2.25 per hundredweight.

The support price for peanuts was raised from $19.50 a ton for the 1959 crop to $20.24 a ton for the 1960 crop.

Films Shown

FAIRFIELD, Feb. 20 — County Agent John Paulson was guest of the Cinema club and presented two films, "Fog" for All Ages and "Entertaining, Ready or Not."

The club voted to purchase a stove and plan other improvements for a room in the grade school in preparation to making it a permanent meeting place for the Cinema club. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Joe Cook, Mrs. LeRoy Traber, Mrs. George Perkins, Jr., and Mrs. Howard St. Clair.

The average American spent $27 a year on medical services in 1959 as compared with $154 today.

Colorado Lawman Confronted by Real Puzzler; Where is Adolph Coors III?

GOLDEN, Colo., Feb. 20 (AP)—No matter of the next, an intensive manhunt was carried on in the ravine, brush and rocky caverns of the entire area between the Coors residence and Golden.

Sheriff Wermuth called off the search the day after the baffling case broke. He said he felt sure Coors had been taken from the area long before his car was found.

Two days later the sheriff pulled his deputies from the vicinity of the missing man's home. At the request of Mrs. Coors.

She asked that "no one interfere with any steps which might be taken to effect my husband's safe return."

What happened to Adolph Coors III? He has been 12 days since the 46-year-old wealthy brewer—executive, more than six feet tall with a spare, well-conditioned frame, vanished only two miles from his ranch home close to the mountain foothills.

Sheriff Art Wermuth and the missing man's father and brother have said they are convinced he was waylaid by men who would like to hold him for ransom.

But if any ransom demand has been made, no word of it has appeared.

The day after his son dropped from sight on Feb. 8, Adolph Coors, 74, said he was "dealing with crooks" and they "have something I want to buy — my son. The price is secondary."

Coors and his wife flew home from a Hawaiian vacation to join others in the family in the long hours of anxious waiting.

The few facts in the case are those:

Two days after he and his family came back from a Florida trip, "Ad" Coors left home shortly before 8 a.m. on a routine 15-mile drive to his office at the Coors brewery and porcelain plant in Golden.

He guided his car to a station wagon along a dirt road because the paved highway in Turkey creek canyon was closed for repairs.

About 10:30 a.m. a milk truck driver came upon the station wagon on a wooden bridge over Turkey creek, with no one in sight. He waited for a few minutes, then moved the car so he could get his truck past. The car's engine was idling, the radio playing softly.

The car was still by the bridge when the trucker made his return trip soon afterward, so he drove to nearby Morrison and called the highway patrol.

When the officers found worn-out manager's blood on the back of the car's front seat and on a plank of the bridge railing. Also a long-violeced cap that Coors liked to wear and his plastic-rimmed glasses, both lying by the stream below the bridge.

For the rest of that day and night.

REWARD NOTED BUDAPEST, Feb. 20 (AP)—Hungary's communist government has come up with a way to reward outstanding musicians. The culture ministry presented Denise Kovacs, a talented young violinist, a rare Gsardner violin made in Italy in 1793. Kovacs said it's worth about $35,000.

Man Claims Featherbedding 'Permeates' Union Movement

Editor, Times-New:
The letter in last Sunday's paper from the members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers deprecating automation, setting up an argument in favor of saving the jobs of men by using "with-draft animals" is one of the most stupid I have ever seen.

Think of how many men could be put to work hauling the goods of the country. Think of how many men could be put to work hauling the farmers would have to plant to feed the millions of draft animals that would be needed. Think of how the government has trouble finding storage space for the surplus of goods it has to store. Think of all the village blacksmiths that would be needed to shoe the country in order to keep the horses shod, and we'd save the money that would be needed to buy new highways because they would be murder on horse feet.

Think of the money that is saved by diesel locomotives as long as no one is afraid of them. Think of the featherbedding that would be saved by

They are not permitted to use a better job, for instance on overhead inside-plaster work, than they can do with a brush. They are not permitted to use a pump to lay out each angular cut. They never even learn that they cannot use a special infusion. Personally, I would like to see a man who is 30 to 80 years old, who has a month and had everything he could get his hands on, and who would not except radio and television and that was only because the

No income tax, no thousands of dollars of government debt hanging over the heads of the people, no money to be paid. No atom bombs and saving money to try to hit the moon. No money to be paid to the people murdered on the highways. The locality where I was born would be a better place to go to. All this farm have

Backers Claim Symington Has Hit "Pay Dirt" With Attack

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—People who would like to see Sen. James O. Eastland, Miss., re-elected president said today the Missouri Democratic has his political pay-off in the state's new defense policies.

They cited what they called a "policy shift" in favor of military spending by Symington as reaffirming their belief.

Eastland would like to be re-elected but remains an uncommitted Democrat in the upcoming nomination. Symington has told friends "that no matter what the outcome of the election, he would like to keep on demanding a high defense spending."

Eastland has had departed of the idea that any of their numbers would be elected president, said the Eisenhower administration in indicating the country on the defense issue.

The Missouri senator avowed, saying directly that the President would do it. Sen. James H. Cannon, D-Mo., said Eastland, D-Mo., and the majority of deliberately misspoke.

Republicans made it clear the new President was under attack.

Other Democratic presidential hopefuls—including Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, D-Texas—have joined in the fray, but have Symington's support.

Eastland said this year he would make the major basis for their bid for the nomination.

Controversial Wilderness Bill Will Meet Opposition at Hearing Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The highly controversial wildlife bill, almost amended to death last year, is now being considered by the committee on senate interior committee meetings which begin Tuesday. The bill, which would set up and preserve wildlife refuges across the country, has been the subject of numerous hearings and discussions. Ranchers, afraid they might lose the right to graze cattle and sheep on public lands, have been particularly vocal in their opposition. Conservationists, on the other hand, have been strong advocates of the bill. The committee is expected to report on the bill by the end of the month. ## Hank's Practice Is to Think For 15 Minutes Each Month

By HENRY McLEMORE

For the past 10 years I have made it a practice to think 15 minutes a month.

On the average, that is, some months I don't think at all—I just don't have time—but I always keep track of the thinking months and make up for them later.

Thinking is fun if you don't do too much of it. I find it relaxing and a month just about right. Not enough to be out, but ample to get things thought through. What do I think about when I think?

Almost everything. The new French bomb. Why it takes coffee so long to percolate in the morning. Why, if the is as bad as the Democratic hopefuls paint him, they didn't launch impeachment proceedings long ago.

Why is Jack Parr so angry just because he isn't allowed to be shown in living off-color? What makes Megan grind her teeth now and then. Where has the vast country? Does Castro really think he looks dashing with that beard? Are parking lot owners the wealthiest men in the country?

When I finish a think session I usually have thought at least one item subject through, and have it all straight in my mind. In January—no, in December, because I didn't think a lick last month—I concentrated on why modern living is so complex.

If, you know, pressures from every side and more coming up all the time. Compare your own life to that, say, of a man in the 19th century. He had time to ponder, to make objects of bronze. How many Americans of today could find the time to beat bronze into household necessities? A hairful, no more.

Modern living is complex because so much has been done to make it simpler. So many gadgets, contraptions, and plain marvels.

Consider the housewife. I disagree with those who think that the vacuum cleaner and electric clothes washer have lightened her problems and given her more free time

Before she had them, the housewife would quit sweeping and washing when her back got tired. The vacuum cleaner and electric clothes washer have no back to tire. They will go on and on. As a result, the housewife spends more time keeping things clean than she used to.

Take a man. An electric shaver is supposed to be a blessing, a time saver. It isn't. Any gain in time is more than offset by his wife's insistence on his shaving more often, now that it's so simple.

In short, no time saver saves time. A modern salesman in an automobile is busier than his brother in a horse and buggy. So the salesman has less time to relax. He can make night calls, and horse and buggy salesmen called it quite once the horse was in the barn.

Modern man has to worry great deal about the items which are supposed to simplify his life. Television sets go on the blink, phones go out of order, he has to wait for frozen food to thaw, rewax chairs and mattresses quit shaking when they should be shaking, causing frayed tempers, and airplanes get him to his destination, so active he has to pay extra hotel bills.

Improved plant-food makes his flowers grow faster and stronger—but the weeds like it, too. Power-packed vitamins make him feel better but keep him busier.

The more I think about it, the more I feel like returning to the bronze age, or, even better, the stone age. Nothing to push. Nothing to pull. Nothing to go out of. Nothing to fix. Nothing to pay for. Nothing to hurry you along. Nothing to hurry along to.

Unit Opposes Leasing Land To Sportsmen

WENDELL, Feb. 20.—The Wendell Chamber of Commerce voted on record opposing the leasing of Idaho lands to out-of-state hunters at the February meeting held at the city hall Thursday.

A report was given by the special committee appointed to review the membership list for 1960 in order to have 100 per cent membership for the current year. The committee will work in teams to make overall contacts in the near future.

Grant Zollinger reported on work completed in the Niagara Springs recreation area. He praised the work organized and completed under the chairmanship of Emerson Pugmire, Hagerman. Action was taken to pay membership dues from the Chamber to the Recreation Council, Inc.

A committee was appointed to consider a plan of action for businessmen to follow in the collection of open accounts. Appointed to the committee were M. H. Meis, Charles Miller and Douglas Schrank.

Mrs. Ray Petersen, member of the local recreation unit, reported that architect plans have been drawn for a proposed swimming pool for Wendell.

GERMANS SHOW STRENGTH, TAKE 2 OLYMPIC GOLD MEDALS

Surprising Show of Power Dashes American Hopes in Women's Downhill Contest

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif., Feb. 20 (AP)—The combined German team wrecked U. S. hopes in the women's downhill ski race today and captured two gold medals in a surprising show of strength in the eighth-year Olympic games. Heidi Beib, an 18-year-old from West Germany, sped down the mile and one-eighth course in one minute, 37.5 seconds to nose out the No. 1 American hope, Penny Pitou of Gilford, N. H., who clocked 1:38.6. To add to the American disappointment, Betsy Snite of Hopewell, Vt., Penny's roommate and ranked with her as one of the world's best, took a bad spill and had to be helped from the course.

The United States collected an unexpected bronze medal in the 500-meter speed skating, won by Mrs. Hilda Hase, a 29-year-old housewife from communist East Germany. Mrs. Hase won in 45.5 seconds, shading Natalia Denchenko of Russia, 46-1/2, and Jeanne Ahlqvist of Wilmington, Mass., a 21-year-old Tufts college student who was third in 46.1.

The Soviet Union's 100-meter sweep in the ladies' 10-kilometer (6 1/5 miles) ski race and jumped into a commanding lead in the battle for unofficial team honors. The Russians, with five events complete, have a total of 39 1/2 points compared to second-place Germany, 19 for Sweden and 13 each for the United States and Canada. Points are based on 10 for first, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth and one for sixth.

Marjia Guskova, a 29-year-old Leningrad dressmaker, led the strong Russian delegation in the cross-country, winning in 39 minutes, 48 seconds. At the Blyth arena, Carol Helo, Ozone Park, N. Y., the world's first female skier, took the first place in the 10-kilometer race. She went through the first six compulsory figures almost flawlessly. She skied for the championship next Tuesday.

Heidi Beib took a commanding lead with an aggregate of 28 1/2 points. Teammate Barbara Hebe, Temple City, Calif., was second with 24 1/2.

Mountaineers Up Home Skier to 43
MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 20 (AP)—West Virginia university's fifth-ranked mountaineering team stretched their home victory string to 43 games tonight with an 89-78 triumph over Pitt. The eighth in a row for WVU over the Panthers.

All-American Jerry West scored his average for the campaign, 29 points. West, playing with a broken nose, left the game with three minutes, nine seconds to play. Pitt led only once. The Panthers took a 42-41 lead early in the second half. The Mountaineers tied it at 42-42 and West's jump shot finally put West Virginia ahead for good at 46-44 with 17 minutes to play.

Nellie Fox Gets $50,000 Pact From Sox

CHICAGO, Feb. 20 (AP)—Diminutive Nellie Fox, an inspiration to little guys, has agreed to play baseball with the Chicago White Sox this year for something like $50,000.

The American league's most-valuable player, whose energetic determination helped win a pennant, now becomes the highest paid player in White Sox history.

Not only does the little second baseman have the laugh on the wags who claim that homotripping out-cuts and single hitters eat cold cuts, but he also has earned the praise of his bosses.

"It's worth every penny of it," says Sox president Bill Veeck. "He was our key man in the winning of the pennant."

Fox, who claims he is 5 feet, 10 inches and 160 pounds although he refused to get on the scales to prove his stature, is going to find it tough to add to his achievements of 1959.

In addition to the MVP award and playing in the world series, he battled .300 and committed only 10 errors to lead the league in fielding. He also set seven major league records.

"Hairy Turn" Spiced Women's Alpine Run

By DORICE TAYLOR
Times-News Special Olympics Reporter
SQUAW VALLEY, Feb. 20—To an Idahoan used to watching home racers hurtle down an Olympic run in the Harriman cup races at Sun Valley, the downhill for women, first Alpine event in the 1960 Olympics, would have seemed a little tame. The show was fairly slow and the course smooth. The ease of the course was deceptive.

However, for there was that "hairy turn" near the finish line. As Penny Pitou, Gilford, N. H., said "before the race we kept saying over and over to each other 'watch out for the hairy turn'."

The turn, a steep loop, for which the announcer improvised the name "hairy turn," followed the fastest section on the course. The race was a close one, with Pitou and Heidi Beib, Oberstdorf, Germany, the 19-year-old girl wader of her country, did not explain how she was able to avoid this hairy turn. The race was a close one, with Pitou and Heidi Beib, Oberstdorf, Germany, the 19-year-old girl wader of her country, did not explain how she was able to avoid this hairy turn.

Most of the girls trained their feet and finished the course but their time was gone. Those who came in with their outside ski on, including Joan Hannah, Francine N. H., who finished 21st and Linda Meyer, Mammoth, Minn., who finished 33rd, American, was fourth entry, Betsy Snite, Norwalk, Conn., who finished 34th, and Heidi Beib, Oberstdorf, Germany, who finished 35th, were the only girls to finish the race but will be one of the expected to be able to race in the giant slalom Monday.

Sewage Treatment Plant Need Here Recognized by Chamber

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce voted unanimously to recognize the need for a sewage treatment system in Twin Falls and favor further study of the problem. The action featured the Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting Friday noon at the Rogerson hotel Pine room.

It was pointed out the Kiwanis club business and government affairs committee representatives will meet with the city commission Tuesday night to encourage city commissioners to solve the problem of a sewage treatment plant in Twin Falls. Directors of the Chamber of Commerce also voted to have a representative present at the commission meeting.

City Manager Joseph H. Lailmore said the present proposal for a sewage disposal plant provides for residue and sludge to be used as fertilizer for city-owned property, which would pay the cost of disposal of the treated material.

Carl Boyd, president, reminded members of the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Wednesday night.

T. M. Robertson read a resolution opposing either the study or creation of a national park in the Sawtooth national forest area. Members voted to adopt the resolution and send it to all Chambers of Commerce in Idaho for consideration.

William Grange, manager and secretary, reported on an airside country.

Former State Champion Water Skier From Hagerman Shows How to Ski on Cold Winter Day

Some persons have difficulty getting on water skis the regular way. Don Hume, Hagerman, former state champion water skier, started in a rubber suit to insulate him from the frigid waters of Snake river, shows how to get up on skis the hard way. This photographic sequence shows Hume as he moves through the water being towed by a boat. In the first picture, top left, Hume slowly moves through the water with his skis in front of him. In the second photograph, he rapidly turns in the water and puts the skis behind him. In the third, feeding-duck-type position, he shifts the tow rope handle behind him and starts to pull him out of the water. The next two photographs show Hume shift his grip on the tow rope and turn around on his skis as the boat skims him over the river's surface. The last photograph shows him speeding down the river in full control of his skis. This entire maneuver took just a few seconds. The suit Hume wears is a skin diver's wet suit. It allows water to enter, but insulates him against the cold. Temperature today Hume, Myrl Schroeder and Lloyd Reed, both Flier, water skier was below freezing. With the suit, the skiers are protected from icy water and winds, except for their faces, which have no protection. (Staff photo-courtesy)

Chilly Air, Icy Water Don't Prevent Water Skiing in Winter, Trio Shows

skin divers have developed "underwater highlines" in cold water. Except for their faces, which is exposed to the raw wind and icy water.

They wear either "wet" or "dry" suits. Both insulate against the cold, the dry suit by keeping the diver completely dry and the wet suit by allowing him to get wet. Both suits are made of neoprene, a synthetic rubber that is resistant to punctures and tears. Both Schroeder and Reed wear dry suits. Underneath the suit they insulate against the cold with long underwear and cotton gloves, covered with rubber gloves. The suits are composed of two different sections, a top and bottom section that are folded together at the midsection to make the entire section watertight.

After the suit is on, all it takes is a dash of intestinal fortitude to splash into the water, don the skis and then ski over the cold water. The men say the suits are warm, but add that a skier would stand little chance of getting drowsy in them. The constant splash of cold water on the bare face is enough to give the chilly to even the most warm-blooded winter water skier. When the cold winds of winter approached the men started using rubber suits. Even some of the coldest days haven't stemmed their love for water skiing. To show their contempt for the cold water, all three water skied at Thousand Springs on New Year's day.

Right now they are training for the spring and summer water skiing tournaments. All three plan to start the tournament season next month at a competition held on the Colorado river near Needles, Calif.

Report Shows Facilities for Shoshone Wood River Center

SHOSHONE, Feb. 20—Facilities and data on the Wood River Convalescent center here have been listed in the annual report this week.

The center opened March 12, 1958. Up to Feb. 1, 120 patients have been cared for with 65 of the number discharged upon recovery or other reasons. At the present time, there is a full quota of regular patients.

The staff numbers approximately 25 in number, two of whom are men. Eight members are part-time employees. The staff may be classified as follows as administration, two; dietary, four; household, five; nursing service, 14.

Three registered nurses, Mrs. Clyde Rapp, who also is administrator; Mrs. Ella Mae Albright and Mrs. Hazel Borsvold take shifts so that at least one registered nurse is on duty at all times.

Licensed practical nurses, Martha Snow and Mrs. Oletha Mings. There also is at least one licensed practical nurse on duty at all times.

The institution is equipped to give hydrotherapy, ultra-violet, ultra-sound and diathermy treatments and to do minor X-ray work.

The recreation room is comfortably equipped with lounging chairs and settees, piano, radio, television and a wide variety of current reading materials. The churches of the community hold devotional services each Sunday according to a prearranged schedule, and occasional musical programs are conducted by schools and civic groups.

Under the sponsorship of various civic clubs a confectionery service is provided whereby patients and staff may purchase candies, chewing gum and other small items from a portable conveyance, Mrs. Rapp says.

Burley Club Sells $1,650 in Drive

BURLEY, Feb. 20—Members of the Burley Lions club and their wives sold $1,650 worth of brownies, rice and doughnuts from drive, Inc. in a door-to-door campaign Wednesday night.

Clara Kunau, chairman of the project, said sale of the items, which are purchased from Live, Inc. are the only means of support for handicapped persons in Boise. Profits made by the club in the project are given to some charitable organization. Last year's profit was given to the Crippled Children's society.

Only the south section of town was canvassed, Kunau said, and persons wishing to purchase any of the articles can do so at Kertle Furniture store or the Burley Realty where they are on display.

needed permanent equipment from small earnings.

As of Jan. 1, the center has joined with the department of public assistance whereby the department is purchasing nursing care for patients up to the cost of $100 per month.

In order to qualify for this, the center has shifted to under supervision of licensed personnel. There have been some misleading facts published about this program and the center desires to set correct facts before the public, Mrs. Rapp says.

It is not a so-called pension plan. If dependents or relatives of patients under this program have been contributing to the care, they are expected to continue to do so. The sole purpose of the program is to purchase better nursing care for the aged and to relieve the various counties of such an indirect cost.

All doctor calls, medications and special treatments such as whirlpool baths, diathermy, ultra-sound and ultra violet are above the $100. All patients admitted will be investigated thoroughly by a committee from the department of public assistance as to how much support the families can give the patient, with medications, doctor calls and treatments taken into consideration.

All patients who come under the program must be under direct medical supervision while in the center. All are required to have a physical examination by their doctor before admission.

These facts are true of all nursing homes participating in this program, the administrator notes.

Pens Occupy Good Amount of Space at Ranch's Winter Headquarters; Some 25 Dogs Used in Sheep Operation

Along the willow shores of Snake river, about five miles out of Rupert, is the winter lambing area for the Flat Top Sheep company. The outfit is owned by Mrs. Mary Brooks, daughter of the late Ben. John Thomas, Grading. The sheep company has been in family hands since the early 1920's, and since 1934 it has been managed by two generations of Burks. Since the death of his father, Sam Burks, Dennis Burks has managed the entire year-round operation that involves about 15,000 sheep. Some 6,000 ewes and yearling ewes are now carried there in 1964. The name of the company is derived from Flat Top butte. (Staff photo—engraving)

Dennis Burks, Rupert, pets one of about 25 sheep dogs used during the year in range operations of the Flat Top Sheep company. Most of the dogs are kept in the kennels when the sheep are in the winter headquarters, and they set up a fierce din at the approach of any stranger. Each of these dogs does the work on the range of a dozen or so men herding sheep. (Staff photo—engraving)

Operation of Winter Headquarters of Sheep Ranch Has Pre-Arranged Look

RUPERT, Feb. 20—Like the quiet generation manager of the company, Mrs. Brooks has just about been raised to operate the large outfit since 1934. Behind him always, in a manner of speaking, is the reputation of his late father, Sam Thomas, Gooding. And also there is the reputation of the owner and sole daughter of the senior Mrs. Mary Brooks.

Valley Area in Summer

Mrs. Brooks, now living in Chicago, visits the area each year on a sustained stay, sometimes at the camp grounds, and sometimes from her summer home at Pella lake.

In view of the economic pressures on the livestock industry in recent years, Mrs. Brooks is concerned about ways to offset grazing costs, how to expand his operation if he has to, in order to hold costs. He is even weighing factors about converting some part of the business to cattle.

These concerns, along with lamb grading, increased Australian and New Zealand imports, low prices for lambs, are behind all his explanation of his entire season's operation.

The company's holdings, he explained, consist of the 200 acres of winter headquarters five miles out of Rupert, some 40,000 acres of public grazing area on the Little Wood river drainage, and parcels on the Sawtooth and Challis national forests.

He has been warned already to expect his Chianina permit to be cut two-thirds within the next five years. He has already seen a cut from 16,000 down to 10,000 acres on his desert allotment.

To offset this, back in 1956, he plowed up 750 acres of the company's private land north of Carey and reseeded it with two pounds of Ladak alfalfa and six pounds of sub-corn feed. Where he never had two hours of feed on sagebrush the next year he had seven days of feed for a band of 2,000 ewes.

More Get About April 1

To date he has seeded on that private land about 1,800 acres of grass, planning to barter the acre, and then planting the grass seed the following year. His last plantings were intermediate wheats, which is a slow starter.

Each year, Burks' plan calls for seeding up another 400 acres and seeding to great until he has an area of another 3,000 acres producing high quality feed.

Yearling Ewes Marked

The movement to the grazing area for all 15,000 ewes and lambs begins on the desert about April 1. After 45 days, on May 15, the trek begins to the deeded lands nine miles north of Carey, and on July 15, the movement is toward the higher country in the forest reserve.

The sheep are grouped into six ewe-lamb bands, and one yearling ewe band. The ewe bands are made up of 25 sheep each. There also are 50 horses and eight pack mules.

After the lambs are sold off the range, by Sept. 1, the sheep are regrouped into three bands. On Oct. 1, they are brought out of the forests down to deeded lands again where they stay until snow falls. Sometimes in November until January, they rustle on the desert

Car Alerts Dogs

Even the border collie dogs and the Australian shepherd with the white, but good eyes, were quiet in their pens until they jumped started and barking at the sight of a strange car.

It all seemed so simple. Every one of a labor crew of about 20 men knew what to do, or where to go to find out. The operation was laid out almost as carefully as the 20 empty but fresh-looking orange camp wagons lined up in a row in an area called the gravel yard, because of the gravel and axle and wheels against a fence.

6,000 Ewes on Ranch

Totaled in all this, at the junction of the old and the new years, were 3,500 ewes, 2,000 yearling ewes and lambs, and almost all the 2,000 lambs that would supply most of next season's cash crop.

It was deceptively simple. With 15,000 sheep soon to be starting out on the range again, management couldn't be simple.

But the man who makes it look so easy is Dennis Burks, second gets the best grass, as for instance ewes with double lambs have to have top feed.

Burks, an easy-mannered friendly man, stated that cuts on the public lands may force him to run cattle on the deeded land. His point is that cattle can run for nine months on land that is not always furnishing good feed, and still look alright in the late fall. But to fatten lambs, green feed has to be available at all times. If the lower lands won't keep them gaining so that, they can be sold fat, he would have to sell them as feeders.

"We couldn't break even selling a feeder lamb," Burks said. "We have to have fat lambs to sell off the range to make the operation worth while."

There is another way by which Burks believes he can expand the company's operation, but it will depend on prices.

This may be accomplished by keeping the ewes in the dry lot and fattening them there, while dry ewes go out on the deeded lands. However, with his cost of feed to the point of fat lambs these past few years, he didn't think the company could profit.

"It would all depend on the market situation," he said.

Another Record

Looms for Corn Output for 1960

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (UPI)—An agriculture department official says farmers may set another new corn production record this year.

The official, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Marvin L. McInnis, told a house government operations subcommittee, however, that he could make no forecast of 1961 corn production.

He added that any idea of reducing corn output by restoring federal acreage controls was "malarky."

The corn acreage allotment program, which was suspended after 1958, "just never works," McInnis said.

These pens hold four pairs of twin lambs and their four ewes, or eight singles and ewes. In time they are moved into larger pens, and eventually they are turned out into the large yards surrounding the central buildings.

Each of these yards, some made wind-tight by fences packed with lumberbrush between double wires, contain up to 500 ewes with double ewes, or 1,200 ewes with singles. These are the bands that will later graze the forests from low country to forest hills and back again. These groupings also are the basis for the larger pens.

Burks uses to decide which band should be slaughtered almost immediately after the "bath."

Milk from dairy cows is reportedly used for human consumption for several days after the dip.

There are some men in the livestock industry who feel that the issue has been exaggerated, and there are others who feel that California is using the threat of embargo on cattle to protect its own operators for the present.

Some livestockmen feel that if scabies is present, all of the cattle, or otherwise, it would be best for all concerned to eliminate the disease from Idaho at once.

Broiler Chicken Increase Looms; Eggs to Decline

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (UPI)—Agriculture department production reports indicate the supply of broiler-type chickens will go up this year while the egg supply gets smaller.

The production of broiler-type chickens by commercial hatcheries during January totaled 160,709,000, up 6 per cent from January, 1959. Production of egg-type chickens totaled 23,687,000, down 33 per cent from a year ago.

Hatchery reports on eggs in incubators on Feb. 1 indicated that the number of broiler chicks to be hatched this month would be large—considerably smaller.

Dipping Vats Are Being Constructed As Scabies Reported in Idaho Cattle

Scabies, the infectious cattle skin disease caused by mites of small eight-legged mites burrowing in hides, may have an effect on the shipments of Idaho dairy stock into California.

California restrictions against cattle from Wyoming, Oregon, parts of Texas, and Idaho went into effect last Monday. A dipping vat is being constructed at the Twin Falls sales yards, and the availability of another vat has been reported at Gooding.

Otherwise all cattle destined for California will have to be dipped in scabicide solution in Lake City, the only area with easily available facilities between here and the coast state.

Dairy producers are fearful that cows or springer heifers may slip and get injured, causing mutilation in their movements from chutes to vat and out again. Even if they don't, California dairymen may not want to purchase Idaho dairy stock, fearing that a chance of buying a cow with an injured udder.

Phone calls from this area to the California state agriculture commissioner's office have been many, and the information received has been that one dipping vat is not sufficient to get permission to bring the cattle into that state.

Just how much dipping will cost hasn't been reported yet by any-cattle that mingled with Idaho valley stock. The effect of the disease, beside the injury to the hide, is that the itch and scabies harrass cattle so much that they will often lose weight when they should be gaining.

Lime-sulphur sprays can be highly effective against the mites, but residual effect of the chemical has been reported to last for 30 to 60 days, thereby restricting time when the cattle can be slaughtered.

Lime-sulphur solutions are considered effective and the animals can be slaughtered almost immediately after the "bath."

Milk from dairy cows is reportedly used for human consumption for several days after the dip.

There are some men in the livestock industry who feel that the issue has been exaggerated, and there are others who feel that California is using the threat of embargo on cattle to protect its own operators for the present.

Some livestockmen feel that if scabies is present, all of the cattle, or otherwise, it would be best for all concerned to eliminate the disease from Idaho at once.

Population on Farms Drops In All of U. S.

RUPERT, Feb. 20.—Complications of fertilizer trials on the potato fields of farmer Len Brady showed that the most profitable application of fertilizer was 100 to 150 pounds per acre.

The tests were made in cooperation with the Idaho Experiment Station, Lippinda extension agent. Dr. Roy Liska, U. S. Steel corporation, and Dr. J. H. Poncelet, and Don Baker, research agronomist for the Simpson company.

The actual value of the crop was based on the 1959 spot contract.

of acre-farmers with the Simpson company.

"Returns for this rate of nitrogen fertilizer, plus an adequate amount of phosphate, was $362 gross. Where more nitrogen was applied, the returns were not returned double sharply.

The spuds for each of the tests were weighed and found to be thirty of an acre and were graded into three sizes, 1 1/2, 1 and 3/4, and 3/4 and under all of the sizes were divided according to specific grades.

From the standpoint of the potato grower, said Smith, using 100 to 125 pounds of nitrogen brought in less money back than the rate of 150 pounds. He added that if more nitrogen was applied, it would spread over the fields, about 40 units of nitrogen can be subtracted from the total figure. However, if the manure is composed of 100 of straw, then more nitrogen is needed.

On the Brady farm, he said, the fields had been in grain. The straw from the fields was used for the cattle and the cattle manure doesn't have to be planted to straw.

This week, Feb. 26 to Feb. 27, all over the United States, high school students who take courses in vocational agriculture are invited to join membership in the Future Farmers of America.

The purpose of the organization is to give the student of the vocational agriculture course a further education. George Washington, the first president of the United States, once said: "The farmer is the backbone of the nation." This is true today as it was then. The farmer produces the food that we eat. He produces the raw materials that we use in our homes and in our industries. He produces the goods that we buy at the store.

It is the duty of every citizen to support the farmer. One way to do this is to become a member of the Future Farmers of America. This organization will help you to learn more about farming and to become a better farmer. It will also help you to become a better citizen.

Join the Future Farmers of America today. It is the best way to prepare for the future.

Mrs. John E. Hayes Has Long Record Of Public Education Field Activities

MRS. JOHN E. HAYES

Moved to Denver

They made their first home—in Twin Falls. Before they moved to Denver, Mrs. Hayes had four children, including a set of twins. They are Winnie Maddock, who now lives in Norfolk, Va.; John H. Davis, a physician in Denver; the late William E. Hayes, an attorney; and Mrs. Marshall Lebaron. Kimberly was born in Denver. She was the youngest child. When it was for—three-months—instead they stayed for 10 years. It was there Mrs. Hayes became interested in the club.

Mrs. Hayes says her first association with the group she later headed—was to win a goldfish: "The first time I was in the Fish Hill school in 1910, at a meeting—in 1910, in the class that talked the most parents' info at the time. The meeting would win a goldfish for the class. Her children's class won and she

Beautiful Scenery Drawing More Tourists to Region

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maughn, and their daughter, Sally, Dole, walk along Redfish lake in Stanley basin. In the past several years traffic into the area has increased to a great extent and the forest service has done considerable construction to keep up with the public's interest in camping and outdoor living while on vacations. (Forest service photo—staff engraving)

Redfish Lake Area Is Example of Race To Keep Ahead of Demands by Campers

Camping area free of dust and the original natural state as much as possible.

There are 10 water stations in this new area and a toilet is placed every 200 feet throughout the area. All these units have been designed so that they can be used by the trailer or tent camper. Ficks says about 75 to 80 per cent of the campers use trailers. Most of the trailers are the short, camper style trailer. In the new area there is no limit on the size of trailer that can be placed in the camp areas.

The forest service will continue to expand the camping area along the east shore as soon as funds are available. Ficks estimates there are enough room for about 200 more units and this expansion will be made in the Redfish Creek area.

Expansion along the western shore can go no further because of the terrain.

Ficks says campgrounds were built most of the time throughout the summer. On the fourth of July overflow crowds moved into an improvised campground in the Redfish Creek area.

He reports the forest service currently is making a survey to determine the area with the highest recreational potential, and future programs will be planned to enhance these areas. Ficks points out that with the shortened week and increased leisure time pressure will increase on camping facilities.

He notes a noticeable increase in tourist pressure on Snowbird valley since World War II here out-of-state tourists use the facilities in the area than do Idaho residents. He attributes this to the increasing popularity of the area.

During the 1958 season a census revealed that the average tourist stayed in the area about two and one-half days per visit, and there were about four or five persons per unit. The heaviest months were July and August. The camping areas are used somewhat during the hunting season.

The area is open all year. For three months in the summer fee is charged for use of a unit. This is paid to a person who leases the area from the government and maintains it.

The "last" major project on the camp area was when the forest service leased the main roads in the area last summer. Ficks says planning of the area, and other camping areas, must be projected 40 years into the future if the forest service is to stay ahead of the population growth and continued use of camping facilities.

Two Winners in Pack Races Are Representative

James Walker, chairman of Morningville school Cub pack 77, poses with two winners of the Pinewood Derby held by that pack. There were 42 entrants. George Marsh, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Marsh, won the award for car construction and Duane Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Watson, won the award for speed. (Staff photo—engraving)

Some 500 Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts Involved in "Pinewood Derby" Event

over five ounces and only the original parts may be used in construction.

The finished cars are about eight inches long, two inches high and have a two-inch wheelbase. Brown says the Cub Scouts will construct their cars with the aid of their fathers. The project is intended to provide Cub Scouts with a father-son project. The Boy Scouts construct their own cars.

Each unit of Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts will hold unit races and determine what cars will be eligible for the final.

The 40-foot long, six-foot high, collapsible runway ramp will be taking to each unit for the runoffs. The ramp was built and donated by Mike Wilson, Planning Mill. Brown says from 25 to 30 boys will enter cars in each unit runoff and it takes about an hour to race that many cars.

Order of the race will be as follows: One hour to race that many cars.

At the final, the cars are placed at the top of the ramp, released, and the first one across the finish line lights a light. Brown says a car must be beyond two times before it is disqualified.

Awards are made in each unit in two separate categories, speed and craftsmanship. First, second and third-place winners in each category receive Pinewood Derby plaques. These six cars from each unit are then eligible for the final.

At the unit races, the Order of Arrow furnishes a plaque. First place winner gets a gold-colored plaque, second, silver, and third, copper.

After each unit race is finished, Order of Arrow members hold the winning cars until the final races. The week prior to the final, the cars and final trophies will be on display in the window of the Idaho Department store.

At the final, Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts will compete in separate categories, making four separate competitions for speed and craftsmanship. The four first-place winners will receive gold trophies. Four other places in each category will receive silver trophies.

Musical Show In Area Gets High Praise

BURLEY, Feb. 20—Presentation of the musical, "The King and I," concluded Thursday evening at the Burley high school with what school officials described as an outstanding success. Spectators were standing in the hall and chairs were placed in the hall.

The auditorium which seats 800, was filled to capacity both Wednesday and Thursday evening and many cars turned away Wednesday night.

Figures were not available on proceeds. Rental for the costumes used in the performance was $550, directors said.

After the cast made several curtain calls the leading lady, Dorothy Norton, was presented a bouquet of long stem roses, a gift from her family. The starry crew of Joe Bradish, Max Allen and Russell Reynolds, along with their helpers, were given recognition for the clock work precision of the production.

Comments from those who saw it noted it was the "best school play ever seen in Burley."

Oakley Residents Report Journeys

HEYBURN, Feb. 20—Leroy Knox has returned from Ft. Knox, Ky., where he completed six months training in the army reserves.

Mrs. Carl Merz has returned from Portland where she visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Garlock, and her new granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hayden and family have returned from Tucson, Ariz., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hines.

Speaker Slated

BURLEY, Feb. 20—Attorney Norman Hines will be the speaker at the defense at the American Legion post 760, 17 and the auxiliary meet at 8 p. m. on Wednesday at 15th street and Oakley avenue.

The public is invited to attend. Mrs. Robert Larson, auxiliary president.

Plan of Californians to Use Idaho as Private Gun Club Vigorously Opposed

IDAHO HUNTERS AND SPORTSMEN are rallying across southern Idaho as rallying groups to oppose the plan of Californians to use Idaho as a private gun club.

The "last" major project on the camp area was when the forest service leased the main roads in the area last summer. Ficks says planning of the area, and other camping areas, must be projected 40 years into the future if the forest service is to stay ahead of the population growth and continued use of camping facilities.

Memberships are reported to cost several hundred dollars each. Farmers signing contracts receive one dollar and "other valuable considerations."

Contracting landholders become honorary members with hunting privileges on their own and other "association" lands—but not their families and friends. Neither do they have the right to exclude any card-carrying association member, even though dozens of them already may be on the place.

Nonaffiliated sportsmen lacking either the cash or the inclination to join the exclusive association must hunt elsewhere—or not at all.

Although the proposal by several Californians promoters to convert southern Idaho farmland to private hunting preserves has been in the air for more than two weeks, local, state residents who are alarmed at the prospect of "up-in arms" writers letters to editors, speaking their pieces on the unsportsmanlike act of what they have the right to exclude any card-carrying association member, even though dozens of them already may be on the place.

But first—the problem! Reduced to its simplest components, it's the unsportsmanlike act of what actors who never remember to get permission to hunt on private land, to "determine" the location of livestock or other valuable property, to close gates and otherwise to observe the "hunter-pledge" and necessities of such a hunting relationship. When the conduct of so-called "road-hunters" is added to the long list of misdeeds by a small group of individuals, the natural indignation of farmers is to close private fields and forests to all shooting.

To combat such problems, the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman council was created in 1954. Hunting by permission always has been its keynote. Working closely with the fish and game department, the council provides printed signs and posters to all farmers and landholders in every corner of the state. Free for the asking, the signs prohibit hunting without (1) obtaining landholder's permission, (2) respecting all property and (3) obeying all hunting rules.

The Landholder-Sportsman council meets biannually to set on all developing problems and to devise new ways of getting across the simple, simple idea that hunting by permission is the sportsmanlike thing to do—and the law.

The council also developed the "hunter-pledge" card idea prevalent in Idaho, along-type signs and extensive news publicity. Thomas and Gantt Director Ross Leonard sums it up this way: "Violations of the practice of hunting by permission only are many and varied, but the most serious one to the average landholder is the idea of road hunting. Starting Sept. 1 with dove season, on through deer season, and on up in the pheasant season, the road-hunter by far causes most of the ill-will of farmers."

Leonard says it may be an unlucky hunter who, late in the day, still "finds" a "road-hunter" on his car hoping to get off a last minute shot at a bird.

Some may think that road hunting is the best way to locate birds, Leonard opines, "while still others undoubtedly are too lazy to drive up to a farmer's house, ask permission and walk into the field."

Whatever the answers to these problems may be, the solutions will be reached in Idaho through the use of state and community facilities. Shooting from an automobile or road is prohibited by law, and no conservation officers patrol throughout hunting season to enforce it.

Members of Methodist Church in Twin Falls Paint, Clear Interior of Building in Annual Project

These church members paint walls of the Fourth avenue east entrance hallway in the Twin Falls Methodist church. They are just a fraction of the many men and women who have devoted time to the church cleanup and painting project in the past few weeks. The Rev. W. A. MacArthur estimates about 35 church members have devoted time to the project. He notes the work projects tend to draw members closer to church activities. They can see the result of their labors and the work seasons are a contribution to church fellowship. From left, the men are Vernon Smith, Lloyd Klumpson, Albert Dougherty and William Chase. ### Methodists Have Annual Cleaning, Painting "Parties" at Local Church

Members of the Twin Falls Methodist church have completed their annual cleanup and painting project. Each year members work on specific projects in the church. The projects are planned so that each area of the church will be redecorated every five years. This winter members are working on the social hall in the basement and all hallways and stairways. Most of the classrooms on the third floor of the new portion of the building were painted in the course of the annual project. After the classrooms were finished, workers went to work on repainting the middle portion of the ceiling of the sanctuary. For about a week they were washing all the woodwork in the sanctuary. Most of the sanctuary was repainted three years ago.

The work seasons started Jan. 5. Each day about 12 members, both men and women, worked about eight hours on various projects.

According to the Rev. W. A. MacArthur, pastor of the church, about 35 persons have devoted their time so far. Most of the men are farmers who worked in the black period. The workers are divided about evenly between men and women. Most of the work is washing and painting. In all, according to the Rev. Mr. MacArthur, about $200 worth of paint has been applied.

The Rev. Mr. MacArthur says the sanctuary ceiling project occupied about two weeks. A good deal of scaffolding was set up for this project.

The annual volunteer work seasons began in 1933. Each winter, about this time members work on certain parts of the church. The Rev. Mr. MacArthur says the work is designed on a rotating basis so that each part of the church will be redecorated every five years. Each year volunteer workers are contacted and asked to do certain work.

The Rev. Mr. MacArthur notes that the work seasons have other than an economical aspect. He explains that the fellowship resulting when church members work together on their own church is beneficial. They are adding to and improving their own church and can see the fruits of their labor.
